

We Are Builders

We are builders of the kingdom.
We are carpenters for the king.
We are building on a firm foundation,
And our work is just beginning.

The stone that was rejected
Has become our cornerstone.
And we hear the call.
We do not fear at all.
We are one, but we're not alone.

We are builders of the kingdom.
We are carpenters for the king.
We are building on a firm foundation,
And our work is just beginning.

Come and join in the labor
To build on what has come before
A church of living, a church of giving
A place to gather with an open door.

We are builders of the kingdom.
We are carpenters for the king.
We are building on a firm foundation,
And our work is just beginning.

A temple for the spirit
A temple for the Lord
Made of living stone,
Of flesh that is our own,
Of bodies broken, of strength restored.

We are builders of the kingdom.
We are carpenters for the king.
We are building on a firm foundation,
And our work is just beginning.

Barbara Ballenger © 1994